CPTED – What is it?

This acronym stands for 'Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design'. It is a crime prevention philosophy based on good design and the effective use of both natural and human-made environment to reduce crime.

Both private and public places can be designed in a way that improves liveability to enhance community safety and make it more difficult for criminals to commit crime. A good example of this is the Southbank Precinct.

How can I assist?

- Be security conscious
- Consider installing external sensor lights
- Keep bushes trimmed and away from doors and windows
- Keep garage and shed doors locked
- To deter trespassers, ensure your home is clearly visible from the street
- Consider installing CCTV cameras
